

Artwork by Uto Hogerzeit

CONFERENCE 9-10 SEPTEMBER 2017 A NEW WAY OR THE NORMAN WAY?

Continuity and change in post Norman Ireland.

Two-day conference exploring the wider influence of the Normans on Ireland, including landscape, social structure, food and medicine amongst others. Full day lectures on Saturday, and an outdoor session on Sunday. A unique opportunity to hear from some of Ireland's foremost historians and archaeologists, all in the very special setting of St. Edan's Cathedral, Ferns.

Book now by emailing: fernsheritageconference@gmail.com
Conference fee €30 including lunch – payment in advance.

Hosted by The Ferns Heritage Project supported by Wexford County Council

SATURDAY 9th
10am – 6.30pm

Emmet Stafford
(Stafford McLoughlin Archaeology)
'Continuity and Change in the early Anglo-Norman period'

Dr Anne-Julie Lafaye
(The Discovery Programme)
'The changing monastic and political landscape of Ferns, 12th – 15th century'

Brian O'Cléirigh
(Historian)
'The O'Doran Brehons and their Law School of Ballyorley'

Goat's Head Historical Fencing (Specialist Martial Arts group)
'Combat: War and Duelling in the 13th-14th centuries'

Regina Sexton
(University College Cork)
'Food and identity: New, Old and Emerging Ways with Food and Culinary Practices in later medieval Ireland'

Ciara Crawford
(Maynooth University)
'Disease and illness in Medieval Ireland: an anthropological approach.'

SUNDAY 10TH
11am

Outdoor session led by Edmund Joyce of Carlow IT interpreting the 19th century St. Edan's Cathedral and its hidden older components.

FURTHER DETAILS AND BOOKINGS

fernsheritageconference@gmail.com

087-4189740

www.fernsvillage.ie

 Ferns Village

 @FernsVillage